VOL. 8.

After the battle of Forbach a French of ficer of Cuirassiers was found dead, with a chart.

It was only a crumpled letter, In a careless, girlish hand; It was only a childish message From the sun-kissed routhern land. It was only a brief memorial Of the tears the absent shed; It was a triffe from the living. And a message to the dead !

"Father, dear, you are gone to battle, But I think incessantly. As I miss your morning blessing, What your sufferings must be:" So she wrote, and so he held it, With a blessing on her head.—

When the token of the living Was a message to the dead! "I'm so good, dear-ob, so steady-You would wish me to be so If I'm quiet, half your dangers Dear mamma need never know.
So, good bye, papa! God bless you!
Guard and bless you evermore:
See! I send you fifty kisses

From an ever ready store l" It was only a crumpled letter
In a dead man's hand that day,

Just to show how hearts were aching In his own land far away. It was only a loving message From a loving child that sped, But the words the living pencilled Were a message to the dead,

Take it not then from his fingers,-Lay it with him in the grave,—
If it he a consolation,
'Tis the latest he will have.
For a think the bullet reached him As the tender words were read; So that when the angels told it, "Twas so message to the dead!
